Negroes Hold Industrial Fair to Show Progress They Have Made.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Fayetteville, N. C., January 1 .-- In ad-New Year's Day by the closing of panks and public institutions and oboffice, the occasion was the big day of the colored people's mid-winter fair, fifty-first anniversary of their emancipation. The chief feature was an address by Dr. J. E. Sheppard, president of the National Religious Training School at Durham. also made an address, while President Sheppard was introduced by Principal Evans, of the negro city schools. Music also formed a part of the public pro-gram. The mid-winter fair is designed to show the progress made in agricultural and industrial arts by the negro race in fifty years of freedom. The exhibits in farm products, poultry. cattle, cooking, sewing and fancy reedlework at the Williams Auditorium, on Gillespie Street, are very creditable.

ally observed the fifty-first anniversary of the emancipation of the race by appropriate exercises. The address was delivered by Rev. H. L. Ashe, pastor of St. Paul M. E. Church, who coun-seled the members of the race, urging days and rise to the "duty of the hour. urged them to look forward to reflection, referring to expressions of encouragement of many of the most influential white men of the nation.

A committee presented an "address to the country," which was read by Attorney J. S. Lanler, It called upon all negroes so to live, strive and act their friends, to be less ostentatious, crated to the sacred duties of life, Oppose Segregation.

Raieigh, N. C., January I.—In their celebration of the lifty-first freedom anniversary, Raleigh negroes to-day appealed to white North Carolinians to oppose segregation, which contemplates the prevention of negroes from buying lands adjoining white properties.

Rev. C. E. Askew, a Raleigh Baptist minister, delivering the address, declared that study of the negro problem had made whites ripe scholars. He appealed for obedience to the law, and said Governor Blense's utterances on the Constitution had done more harm than all his pardons.

ECONOMY MOVE ON SHOALS REGULATIONS ARE DEFICIENT

Appropriation Bills Whipped Applied Science Will Overcome Into Shape Far More Quickly Than Before.

Washington. January 1.—Most members of Congress left in the capital through the recess are studying problems they will flave to deal with when Congress reconvenes, a week from Monday. Individual members and clerks of committees are doing preliminary work on measures soon to be the subjects of committee deliberations. Each member of the House Judiciary Committee left in the city is spending vacation time familiarizing himself with various proposals bearing on the administration's antitrust program.

The movement for economy in appraently has drifted onto the shoals.

An expected second conference of chairmen and ranking members of committees that report supply measures, did not materialize, and now none is in contemplation. Most chairmen of committees contend they already have cut estimates as far as consistent with public demands.

The appropriation bills have been histed little where distances and miners and miners and miners and delictent State and national regulations of the mining industry were blamed for the ligh death rate among mine employes by Dr. Joseph A. Holmes, director of the United States Bureau of Mines, in an address before the mechanical science and engineering section.

"The leath rate among mineers," said Dr. Holmes, "is a national disgrace, it is twice to three times that of European mining countries, when considered on the basis of the number of men employed.

Applied science will overcome any disadvantages which tariff reduction or dissolution of great business concerns may bring according to Dr. Robert Kennedy Duncan, head of the Melion Institute of Applied Science, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"With the high degree of utilization of wasts materials, that can be obtained by scientific methods," Dr. Kennedy toid one of the sections to-day, "American manufacturers need not fear foreign competition from a reduced tariff, and the great loss of money through the slack business methods of great combines can readily be recuperated through the application of scientific methods, in case of dissolution by the government."

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Washington, January 1.—It is announced at the offices of the American Red Cross Society that there has been received there a cable from Queen Eleanor of Bulgaria, making a piteous appeal for relief for Bulgarians and other subjects of her husband who have been distressed as a result of the recent Balkan troubles.

The statement is made that the Queen has advised the Red Cross people that many thousands of the Bulgarian people have been rendered homeless and are in a starving condition. She further points out that the very severe, cold weather is adding greatly to the suffering of these people.

An arrangement is being made by the officers of the Red Cross Society to receive and forward contributions for the relief of the conditions outlined in the cable from Queen Eleanor.
